- 4) The formal agreement which specifies the employment terms and conditions for the employee and employer is called an employment contract.
- 5) An employer does not incur any legal responsibilities or liabilities regarding its employees.
- 6) The common law principle of employment-at-will says that, in the absence of any contract language to the contrary, either the employer or employee may terminate the employment relationship at any time, but for only for certain reasons.
- 7) There are some restrictions on employment-at-will, such as statutory requirements for nondiscriminatory termination.
- 8) An independent contractor is legally considered an employee of the employer who hired him/her.
- 9) If an employer hires an independent contractor, it may reduce the employer's exposure to laws and regulations governing the employment relationship.
- 10) A person is more likely to be considered an independent contractor if they work without supervision or oversight from the employer.
- 11) Temporary employees are considered to be employees of the temporary help agency that obtained them through its own staffing process.
- 12) Court cases suggest that permatemps (employees from a staffing agency who have been with the employer for extended period of time) are still exclusively considered employees of the staffing agency.
- 13) Employment laws and regulations exist, in part, to reduce or limit the employer's power in the employment relationship.
- 14) Laws and regulations provide protections to employees that they could not possibly acquire individually in an employment contract.
- 15) The Civil Rights Act specifically mentions employment practices that are permitted for employers.

- 16) The majority of common law decisions are made at the federal level.
- 17) Constitutional law supersedes any other source of law or regulation.
- 18) Examples of common law include the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the Constitution.
- 19) The Civil Rights Act is a statutory source of law/regulations.
- 20) Agencies that enforce staffing laws typically do not rely on written documents to perform their functions.
- 21) Whether an organization is covered by the Civil Rights Act, Age Discrimination in Employment Act (ADEA), and Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA) depends on its number of employees.
- 22) When determining if an organization large enough to be covered by ADA law, only full-time employees should be included in the employee count.
- 23) Company officials and individual managers can be held personally liable for discrimination under the Civil Rights Act, the ADA, or the ADEA.
- 24) The Civil Rights Act prohibits discrimination on the basis of age or disability status.
- 25) The Age Discrimination in Employment Act covers individuals over the age of 40.
- 26) Employers are required to post notices to all employees advising them of their rights under the laws EEOC enforces and their right to be free from retaliation.
- 27) Claims of disparate treatment focus on the effect of employment practices, rather than on the motive or intent underlying them.
- 28) Claims of disparate impact focus on the effect of employment practices, rather than on the motive or intent underlying them.
- 29) Applicant flow statistics look at differences in selection rates (proportion of applicants hired) among different groups for a particular job.
- 30) The EEOC's preferred method of settlement for employment discrimination claims is a lawsuit.
- 31) In disparate treatment cases, the employee attempts to demonstrate that the defendant's stated reasons for a practice are a pretext, or smoke screen, for the discriminatory intent of practice.
- 32) The consent decree usually contains only an agreement to halt certain practices, and seldom extends to providing monetary relief or AA programs.

- 33) Enforcement mechanisms used by the OFCCP closely mirror those used by the EEOC.
- 34) It is unlawful to discriminate in hiring, firing, compensation, or classification of employees on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin.
- 35) Staffing practices that may seem unfair, outrageous, or of dubious value to the employer, but that do not cause adverse impact, are legal.
- 36) If an employer has a selection system in which applicants first take a written test and those who pass it are interviewed, the plaintiff must show adverse impact for the two components combined.
- 37) A prison with mostly male inmates might successfully use the concept of BFOQ to argue that it is a business necessity to hire only male prison guards on the grounds that by doing so it ensures the safety, security, and privacy of inmates.
- 38) Although civil rights legislation does not explicitly mention the use of tests in staffing, most courts have found that the use of such tests is permissible.
- 39) Employers can adjust the scores of employment-related tests on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin.
- 40) The Civil Rights Act of 1964 explicitly permits the use of seniority and merit systems as a basis for applying different terms and conditions to employees.
- 41) The Age Discrimination Act of 1967 prohibits all discrimination on the basis of age.
- 42) It is permissible to use terms or phrases that express a preference for older workers, such as "over age 60," "retirees," or "supplement your pension" in employment advertising.
