Essay (13)

Q70. [Essay]

Compare and contrast public law and private law.

Suggested answer: Sample response: Public law refers to the government taking action against someone (e.g., criminal or administrative law). The goal is often to punish the person through correctional means. Private law refers to a private party taking action against another private party, usually for monetary compensation (e.g., civil law).

Q71. [Essay]

Distinguish factual guilt from legal guilt.

Suggested answer: Sample response: Factual guilt determines if the person actually committed the crime. Legal guilt refers to the person not having their rights infringed upon throughout the criminal process.

Q72. [Essay]

What is Congress's most powerful tool? Why?

Suggested answer: Sample response: Congress's most powerful tool is the authority to use the Commerce Clause. Congress can use its Commerce power to regulate crime when someone commits a crime in interstate commerce or when they use something that has traveled in interstate commerce to commit their crime.

Q73. [Essay]

What is the burden of proof in criminal cases? Explain why this is important.

Suggested answer: Sample response: The burden of proof in criminal cases is proof beyond a reasonable doubt. The prosecution must convince the jury that there is no other reasonable explanation that can come from the evidence presented at trial. It is important because the defendant has a lot to lose, mainly their freedom.

Q74. [Essay]

Explain why the U.S. Constitution is the nation's most influential law.

Suggested answer: Sample response: The U.S. Constitution is the Supreme Law of the land. Therefore, all federal and state law must be aligned with it. If a law violates the Constitution, it is void.

Q75. [Essay]

Define and compare bills of attainder and ex post facto laws.

Suggested answer: Sample response: Ex post facto laws subject people to punishment for committing an act that was not against the law at the time they engaged in the act. Bills of attainder are legislative acts that punish someone without a trial.

Q76. [Essay]

Explain what happens during an appeal.

Suggested answer: Sample response: The last stage of a trial is an appeal. A defendant can only appeal their case if they believe there was a procedural error in the case. For example, if a member of the criminal justice system violated the defendant's due process rights at any point in the process, the individual could appeal.

Q77. [Essay]

Explain what the Police Code of Conduct is and why it is important for police to follow it.

Suggested answer: Sample response: Police accountability is important, especially in today's world. Police should not discriminate against anyone, they should use the least amount of force to subdue a person, and they should not engage in any form of corruption. Essentially, they should behave in ways that make the public trust and respect them.

Q78. [Essay]

Describe the factors that influence a prosecutor's decision to file charges.

Suggested answer: Sample response: There are many factors that influence whether or not to file charges. Prosecutors consider the quality and quantity of evidence, the seriousness of the crime, the odds of winning the case, court resources, the wishes of the victim or family members, and public opinion.

Q79. [Essay]

Explain the concept of Separation of Powers and assess its importance.

Suggested answer: Sample response: Separation of Powers is laid out in the U.S. Constitution. It refers to the division of power between the executive, legislative, and judicial branches. The executive branch is responsible for enforcing laws, the legislative branch makes laws, and the judicial branch interprets laws. Separation of Powers ensures that no branch becomes too powerful or corrupt.

Q80. [Essay]

Explain the incorporation doctrine's impact on the U.S. Constitution becoming increasingly more important.

Suggested answer: Sample response: The incorporation doctrine extends the rights in the U.S. Constitution from the federal government to the states through the due process clause. Important rights, such as those in the Bill of Rights, have been incorporated in the states. Prior to the incorporation doctrine, the federal government had to respect the U.S. Constitution, but the states did not. Therefore, there used to be variation in the rights people enjoyed, depending on which state they lived in. However, this changed with the incorporation doctrine.

Q81. [Essay]

Identify the similarities and differences between the Fifth Amendment and the Fourteenth Amendment.

Suggested answer: Sample response: Both amendments protect due process. However, the Fifth Amendment protects due process at the federal level, while the Fourteenth Amendment ensures that citizens are also granted due process protections at the state level. Furthermore, the Fifth Amendment also protects citizens against double jeopardy and provides the right against self-incrimination.

Q82. [Essay]

Identify strategies that restorative justice uses to accomplish its goals.

Suggested answer: Sample response: Restorative justice aims to address the harms of prior crimes. It uses different strategies, all of which are holistic, depending on the program and type of crime. Moreover, it usually uses face-to-face meetings that bring together people who have committed offenses, victims, and other people affected by the crime. A trained facilitator holds the meeting, and the main goal is to address the harmed person's needs. Restorative justice has become more prevalent in recent years, as the nation is turning away from retributive strategies.

Essay (2)

Q99. [Essay]

Define new judicial federalism and provide an example of it.

Suggested answer: Sample response: New judicial federalism refers to states stepping in to protect people's rights if the U.S. Constitution does not. In 2020, the Court ruled that LGBTQ+ individuals have protections in the workplace guaranteed by the Civil Rights Act. Prior to that, states decided if they wanted to grant LGBTQ+ individuals protections in the workplace.

Q100. [Essay]

Explain some of the ways in which prosecutors use discretion in a negative way.

Suggested answer: Sample response: Prosecutors are the most powerful actors in the criminal justice system. One way in which their discretion can be used negatively is that they may engage in misconduct to get a conviction. For example, they might communicate with defendants without a defense attorney, fail to disclose evidence in discovery, or allow false witness testimony. They may also make mistakes that allow innocent people to be convicted. We do not see this as much anymore, but in the past prosecutors could fail to provide exculpatory evidence, like DNA.
